About the National Seminar

NSGST-2026 is an academic initiative to provide a platform for discussion by bringing academicians, practitioners, industry experts, policymakers, consumers, and researchers from diverse disciplines and community partners to engage in a constructive dialogue on GST reforms and come out with the real time challenges in compliance and resolutions of the same for building a resilient and inclusive economy. Organized by Department of Commerce, Aggarwal College Ballabgarh, in collaboration with Indian Council of Social Science Research, the seminar intends to enhance fiscal literacy and understanding in reshaping a just, stable and sustainable taxation system and to contribute in policy making by devising actionable recommendations, capturing ground feedbacks, promoting inter -state dialogue, faster implementation and strengthening the structure of GST 2.0 for Viksit Bharat@2047.

Introduction of the Goods and Services Tax (GST) on July 1, 2017, marked a historic transition in India's indirect tax regime, integrating a complex system of central and state levies into a unified national framework. After eight years of successful implementation, evolving economic dynamics, technological advancements, geopolitical turbulence, tariff war and sanctions, the rollout of Next-Generation "GST 2.0" reforms in September 2025, initiates a critical new phase for India's economic and regulatory landscape. Taxation is often viewed as a complex and murky area and often distances public from debates and open discussion. The seminar seeks to promote impactful academic deliberations among youth, researchers and other stakeholders on socio-economic impact of next-generation GST reforms. The Seminar discussions will focus on how redesigned tax slabs, rationalized tax exemptions, tech-enabled governance and pro MSME tax mechanism can improve productivity and develop competencies while strengthening social justice.

Objectives of the Seminar

- Evaluation of performance of GST in the last 8 years
- Identifying underlying gaps and challenges under GST 2.0
- To explore GST potential for sustainable growth induced by taxation reforms
- Assessing how GST 2.0 can boost economic resilience by stable revenue generation and absorbing shocks from global uncertainty.
- To identify technological and compliance innovations in taxation
- To encourage academic research and policy dialogue on tax reforms
